Aesthetic as well as Sensory Experience at the Michener Art Museum in Doylestown

September 18 (Wednesday), 10.45 am

Michener Art Museum, 138 S. Pine St, Doylestown, PA 18901, www.michenerartmuseum.org

Organized by Eva Jackson

The sonambient, or tonal, is the sculpture that is most often associated with Pennsylvania artist Harry Bertoia (1915-1978) and therefore it is the highlight of the exhibition “Structure and Sound”. The sculptures are made from metal and their sizes vary, which influences the swaying of the tonal rods and the tenor of sound they emit. After the guided tour club members can eat lunch in the museum’s catered Café. They also have the chance to view works by artists such as furniture designer George Nakashima and several Pennsylvania impressionist landscape painters. Please state, if you are interested in a lunch box when you make your reservation. Friends are welcome to join.

Deadline: September 9 (Monday)

From the President

Dear Members,

Another very successful Club year has come to an end, and we will start the new membership year formally with the upcoming Afternoon Tea at the Sofitel on September 12th (see article at right).

The board would like to welcome Christine Calbry as the New Membership Director and Annette Meertz as our new Director of Programs. We are also pleased to announce that Luciana Aspesi is continuing for a second term as Director of Charity. We thank them all for their service and look forward to fruitful tenures.

I encourage you to attend the Afternoon Tea. It is a good way to meet and greet your fellow members, new and old, and potential new members. Please continue to share spontaneous ideas for special events with me or our Director of Programs.

Enjoy many diverse activities, meet friends from around the world with us. You might be pleasantly surprised about how much we have in common. Here’s to a fulfilling new year!

Kind Regards

Helga Ruus-Neubert

Philadelphia Premiere: Emma at The Lantern

October 23 (Wednesday), 12 noon
Le Pain Quotidien, 801 Walnut Street, Philadelphia and The Lantern Theater Company, 923 Ludlow Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107
www.lanterntheater.org

Organized by Jacqueline Yates

Young and effervescent, young Emma is a bit too accustomed to having her own way, although only her friend Mr. Knightley seems to notice. Nearly 200 years after its publication, Emma continues to delight, both as a coming of age tale and a lively satire of Jane Austen’s elegant and quirky characters. The special adaptation of The Lantern Theater features a spectacle of Regency Dance, revelry, and romance that will welcome audiences into Austen’s witty, captivating world.

Before visiting the play, which begins at 2 pm, we will sit down for a special lunch at the Restaurant Le Pain Quotidien, which is a short walking distance away.

Deadline: October 14

Reservations: Send a check payable to IWCP to Jacqueline Yates, 317 Wayne Ave, Lansdowne, PA 19050, 610-623-0395
jacquineycates@gmail.com

Cost: 27.50 $ (lunch is paid individually)

Parking: Please use one of the several parking lots in the area. Carpooling is advisable.

Happy Birthday!

Besides the Autumn poets sing,
A few prosaic days
A little this side of the snow
And that side of the haze.
